

1. Parents are understandably put off using a Recruitment Agency that charge them thousands to place a Nanny.
2. Parents and Childcarers have told us of minor or serious bad experiences meeting people via the labyrinth of online websites, Facebook, or community websites that include us being told of:
 - People that paid to advertise themselves with a fake profile of Childcare work experiences which usually convinces a Parent to pay them the higher rates that at some point a Parent gained proof that the work experience stated was not true.
 - Dishonest people shockingly and easily get away with this because such businesses above even if charging a Parent fee do not speak to, interview or reference check a person claiming to be a great Childcarer.
 - Sadly we know of Children and babies upset, badly cared and hurt by Parents choosing the wrong Childcarer.
 - Regards the duties of a Nanny there is so much misinformation on the internet or comments made within social media written by people who have never worked as or employed a Nanny. None of us Childcare trained to work as our Employers whole house cleaner, cook Parents' meals, and iron Parents' clothes. Parents that chose to not to keep to the Traditional Nanny Role Duties by asking or hinting to do non-Childcare related duties risk losing for their Child who become attached to a great Nanny. Weekly Nannies are telephoning us in tears not feeling respected so feel no choice but leave a job in the probationary.

Parents why use Little Masters and Misses?

- Uniquely we will do reference checks going back decades if a Childcarer is in contact with an ex-employer.
- For our average under £100 fee we often save our Nanny Employers £1000s as if they overpay a Nanny by just £2 per hour gross on a 10-hour day and 3-day week this is by £60 per week or £3120 a year! "
- Nor do Childcarers feel safe advertising themselves and receiving texts from strangers, one went into a Dulwich house for an interview to be told no Children were involved and was offered unsavoury work.
- We will guide you on the correct Gross rate to pay which include under UK law deducting PAYE Tax and Employee National Insurance and duties to expect.